

Dear parents:

Summer is just around the corner!

Volunteer to help students with their Summer Activity packets!

We will once again be partnering with the Warner Public Library to present a read-aloud series this summer. As part of this program, Tarrytown Teachers Telling Tales, teachers volunteer to read and discuss books with children at the library. Open to all children, it is a way to keep children engaged in listening, thinking and speaking about literature over the summer.

In addition to the read aloud series, we are hoping to provide parent volunteers to assist children with their summer activity packets. The packets go home with all students K-6, and provide one activity per week across the content areas to refresh students' skills and keep students thinking across the vacation. Most of the activities are similar across the grades, scaffolded to meet their age and experience. We are currently looking for some parent volunteers who would like to come to the library on Thursdays to help students with these activities after the Tarrytown Teachers Telling Tales read-aloud. It would mean volunteering one hour of your time to encourage and provide assistance to some of our students.

To volunteer, simply complete the form below indicating your availability, and return it to your child's school, or contact EPTA president Rachelle Gebler (ddgebler@yahoo.com or 914-332-0182) or district Elementary ELA Developer Randy Lichtenwalner (rlichtenwalner@tufsd.org) who will compile a schedule and confirm dates.

Join us in helping children maintain – and build – their skills over the summer vacation!

Yes! I would like to volunteer to an hour of my time to help keep some children thinking and learning over the summer!

I have numbered my choices below in order of preference for the day(s) I am available and would like to volunteer.
